JUNKETING U. S. SOLONS PRAISE WILSON: TALK OF 1916 SPLIT IN G. O. P.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—"Beat it! Skidoo! Fade away! I'm busy taking a bath."

This, in effect, was the response of Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the United States House of Representatives, this morning, when an effort was made to interview him on the national political situation.

"Will you dance the Virginia reel tonight at the Exposition ball?" the interviewer shouted through the key-hole.

"Seat! Don't bother me! I don't know. It depends upon what effect the trip around the bay this morning has upon my internal economy."

"Do you think President—"

"Goodbye."

Uncle Joe Cannon headed a party of one hundred and thirty-nine senators and representatives, accompanied by their wives, who arrived in San Francisco this morning. During the forenoon the party were the guests of the Exposition management in a trip around the bay.

An official reception and ball will be tendered the distinguished guests this evening by the Exposition officials. Tomorrow the party leave for Honolulu.

Criticism of the Philippines bill, praise of President Wilson, and predictions of a split in the Republican party organization were among the matters voiced by members of the party today.

Senator Smoot of Utah expressed considerable dissatisfaction with the Philippines bill aiming at independence of the Filipinos. He plans to conduct a personal investigation into the situation during this trip, and for this purpose will leave the party at Honolulu and proceed to Manila alone. Later he will visit Japan.

Senator James of Kentucky, following a personal investigation of business conditions throughout the country said today:

Prospects Bright
"The Democratic party's prospects for 1916 seem to me very bright. Business conditions everywhere are sound. President Wilson and his advisers have handled a most difficult and dangerous situation to the entire satisfaction of the people. I believe Wilson will be renominated by acclamation and re-elected by an overwhelming vote."

Senator James went on to predict a repetition of the split of last campaign between the conservative and progressive elements of the Republican party.

Senator Cannon was in his bathtub at the hotel when an attempt was made to interview him. He refused to discuss the political situation in any manner, declaring that he was more interested in removing the stains of travel from his person than anything else.

NIGHT SESSIONS MAY BE NEEDED TO ADJOURN NEXT WEEK

SACRAMENTO, April 26.—The assembly settled down to business today with merely a quorum present, to consider a long file of routine bills. The senate, as usual, was late in convening. Both are expected to hold night sessions to permit adjournment by next week.

After considerable debate the assembly passed the Sisson bill permitting any county, city or supervisorial district to hold an election on the plan of building a public hospital.

Governor Johnson has invited the legislators to a reception at the gubernatorial mansion May 1. This will be the first social function of the official year.

CANNERY IS SECURED TO OPEN IN RIVERSIDE

RIVERSIDE, April 26.—After several years' efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to be repaid in seeing a cannery established in Riverside, Walter Burt and Gene Gleason have organized the Riverside Canning Company and will establish a cannery in time for the next summer season of apricots, peaches and tomatoes.

'1916 Choice Will Be Progressive Republican'

THE veterans in many a contest in the Daughters of the American Revolution drew battle lines again in their recent contest in Washington over the choice of a president-general. This time the lines were drawn between the west and the east. Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey of Kansas (left) unsuccessfully opposed Mrs. William Cummings Story of New York for president-general.

PIONEER OF POMONA GOES TO LAST REST; GOOD ROADS FATHER

Frank W. Balfour Dies After Illness Lasting Barely Week or Two

POMONA, April 26.—Frank W. Balfour, pioneer, than whom no man has a longer record of accomplishment in and for the San Gabriel Valley, died at the Pomona Valley Hospital early Saturday morning from a complication of internal troubles which developed more than a week ago.

In his death Pomona lost one of its most valued citizens, and expressions of grief were heard on every side.

Balfour came to Pomona a quarter of a century ago to make his home. He had been here when the town was laid out, but went to Los Angeles after the "boom," becoming identified with the street department.

His first business in life was as an engineer, and consequently he turned his entire attention to good roads, when he became a Pomona orange grower. He took the initiative in most of the public meetings which led up to the system of highways which now unites the cities of this and adjoining counties.

SEVERAL SANTA ANAS ANSWER AS DID IOWA SENATOR IN INTERVIEW

"Next year a Republican candidate for President will be nominated and he will be elected. The prosperity and growth of the country depends upon the election of a Republican President."

"In order to win the next election the Republicans must nominate a Progressive and that is the type I am hopeful they will name."

The above are sentences that appeared in an interview with United States Senator Cummins in the Register last Saturday.

The question as to what will be done by the Republicans and Progressives is one that is being discussed all over the United States right now, and it will be a question of paramount interest right up to the day the Republicans make a nomination.

Here in Santa Ana the interview with Senator Cummins was read with a great deal of interest. That his statements are agreed in by a large number of Republicans and Progressives is shown by interviews secured today by the Register, and published herewith.

DR. C. D. BALL, Progressive—"I consider the Wilson administration a menace to the country, and I believe that the next president should be a high tariff man. Neither faction of the high tariff people is strong enough to defeat the Democrats, and it will take a union of the two to make a change in the presidency. I do not believe that a radical standpat Republican can be elected. Neither do I believe that a radical Progressive can be elected. The nominee should be a man satisfactory to both factions. If such a man is nominated, he will be elected."

S. M. DAVIS, Progressive—"I believe that owing to the present monetary depression there can be no doubt that all those who are not out-and-out Democrats desire to see a change in the presidency. Just the same, the next president will not be a Republican unless the Republicans and the Progressives decide upon a candidate who will be able to bring about an amalgamation of the party."

"Those Republicans who are taking the recent election results in Chicago as a basis for thinking that it will be plain sailing for any Republican, whether of Progressive tendencies or not, will find trouble ahead, I believe."

"I do not think a candidate from west of the Rocky mountains will have a chance of being elected. Senator Cummins is a good man. He comes from a state that would support him at every turn. Still, this support is not representative of the feeling throughout the nation. And it certainly cannot be regarded as representative of what the vote would be east of the Rockies, where the great bulk of the electors is."

"As it has been put, it is a question as to what candidate will be most likely to 'lick Wilson.' While I do not believe that a Progressive would have this chance, I still believe that the candidate who stands for true Progressivism, who has stood up for and fought for Progressivism with all his might during the entire time he has been in the public eye, will have a better chance of being elected than any candidate who stands for present-day Republicanism. Governor Johnson has shown that he is strong in California, but how he would run further east, there is no way of telling. Roosevelt would be a good candidate, as would also Supreme Court Judge Hughes."

JOHN BEATTY, Progressive—"There must be a coalition of the Progressives and Republicans, else a Democrat will be elected president. There must be give and take on both sides in the selection of a candidate. The time is past when a radical standpat man can be elected president. The SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Forty-three members of the California Editorial Association were today guests of honor of the exposition. Following a reception the party marched to Festival Hall, where a bronze memorial medal was presented. Later the editors toured the Joy Zone together.

When the scribes formed in line to march to Festival Hall the band struck up a wedding march in honor of Editor Harlan G. Palmer, the Hollywood Citizens' Association's president, who had secretly wed Miss Ethelyn Punks of Hollywood and of Editor C. E. Jones, of the Lancaster Ledger, who married Miss Jessie Clark of Los Angeles.

ENTIRE FLEET OF ALLIES BEGINS NEW ATTACK UPON FORTS OF SULTAN

ATHENS, April 26.—The entire Anglo-French fleet is again bombarding the Dardanelles in a long range action begun yesterday. The Turkish forts are replying vigorously. It is believed the attack is designed to cover the landing of troops for a shore attack.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 26.—The Russian Black Sea fleet bombarded the Bosphorus ports for half an hour yesterday, but did no damage.

[Copyright by United Press.]
HEADQUARTERS OF THE BRITISH OVERSEAS ARMY IN NORTHERN FRANCE, April 26.—The Germans are bombarding Ypres with seventeen-inch guns, the latest product of the Krupp works. The roar of the guns is audible for thirty miles. German incendiary shells have set fire to all Belgian farms and villages along the 20-mile front. Tonight the sky is illuminated with the glare of blazing homes and barns.

The high northerly winds which have been blowing across the allies' trenches for three days, carrying stupefying gases, have ceased and the weather is completely calm.

The allies are in high temper over what they term flagrant violation of the rules of civilized warfare by Germans in the use of asphyxiating bombs.

From highest officer to private there is the bitterest invective against the Germans.

I believe the Germans actually did massacre the Belgians. I snapped a Canadian officer of high rank whom I saw in a field hospital suffering from the effects of deadly gases.

Many Canadians are in the hospitals suffering solely from the gas from German bombs.

The entire Canadian contingent has been engaged and all receive unstinted praise from Field Marshal French and his staff.

VIENNA (by wireless to Sayville), April 26.—The war office states today that the Russian offensive in the Carpathians has completely failed. There is no progress at Uszok Pass, where it is claimed the Russian losses have been tremendous.

BERLIN (by wireless to Sayville), April 26.—The war office today specifically and definitely denied the London and Paris claims that the allies have forced the Germans across the Yser Canal, declaring the Germans retain Lizerne. The statement claims the Germans have taken 5000 British prisoners, including one thousand Canadians.

LONDON, April 26.—"We've landed a large force on Gallipoli peninsula," the war office announces today. This is interpreted to mean the allies' combined land and sea attack on the Dardanelles fortifications has begun. No numbers are given but it is believed 20,000 troops were landed, Sir Ian Hamilton commanding.

Additional reports from Athens declared the entire allied fleet is in action. It is believed to be a final tremendous effort to force a way to Constantinople.

BUNNY, FAMOUS MOVIE STAR, IS DEAD TODAY

NEW YORK, April 26.—John Bunny, 52 years old, motion picture comedian, died of Bright's disease today.

Bunny's illness has been marked by frequent improvements, giving his friends hope he might recover.

Within the last ten days he has been reported dying, but later rallied, read the premature accounts of his death published in local papers, laughed heartily and discussed them with friends.

The following day he was so much improved he wished to leave the house, and his doctors and wife restrained him with difficulty. His face probably is known to more persons in the motion picture world of America and other countries than that of any other man. He regarded his so-called extreme homeliness as his greatest asset.

GIRL RISKS LIFE TO SAVE MOTHER'S LIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Alice Schuffler, aged 7 years, today braved a gas-filled room and saved the life of her mother, Mrs. Emily Schuffler, who had evidently turned on the gas with suicidal intent.

TAX EXPERT HAS PRAISES FOR SLEEPER

J. J. McDade Is Given Little Consolation in E. P. E. Troy's Statement

"From the little opportunity I had of observing the assessments made by Mr. Sleeper, the assessor of Orange county, I came to the conclusion that he is one of the best assessors in the state."

This statement was one made in a letter written by E. P. E. Troy of San Francisco, well known as a public utility, municipal and tax expert.

Interest in the letter written by Troy is enlarged by reason of the controversy started at Sacramento by J. J. McDade, former sheriff of San Francisco, a brother-in-law of Jerome O'Neill, owner of the Santa Margarita ranch in San Diego county and the Mission Viejo and Trabuco ranches in Orange county. McDade wrote to Troy for information concerning assessments in San Diego and Orange counties, but he did not use Troy's reply in the hearing last Tuesday night before the Senate Committee on Revenue and Taxation, which meeting was attended by County Assessor Sleeper of Orange county.

Today the Register received the following letter from Troy, together with the copies of McDade's letter to him and Troy's reply to McDade.

Troy's Letter

San Francisco, Cal., April 22, 1915.

Editor Register.

Dear Sir: Mr. J. J. McDade has written me that he used my name before the Senate Committee on Revenue and Taxation during his recent criticism of the assessors of San Diego county and Orange county. I enclose you a copy of Mr. McDade's letter to me in which he gives me that information, and a copy of my reply to him.

I trust that in justice to these two assessors that you will be able to give some space to my letter.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD P. E. TROY.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS 'SYRUP OF FIGS'

Made From Fruit; Can't Harm Tender Stomach, Liver and Bowels

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or is feverish or has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs," to evacuate the bowels no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

evening. I send you a copy of the Sacramento Union which gives a report of the proceedings.

I referred to one case of under-valuation with which I was familiar and told them that you had made a study of the subject and were in possession of facts that would show gross discrimination.

They asked me to try to get the information. If you will kindly write out some of the information which I remember as having been published as the statement you made at some official meeting, it will be of great service.

You have devoted a great deal of time, energy and ability to this matter and I have a splendid opportunity to make it available for a good purpose.

I will need the information before Tuesday evening and would ask you to put a special delivery stamp on it so that I may get it as soon as possible and have time to study up the facts.

Trusting that it will be agreeable to you to do me this favor and render the cause you have served so efficiently and faithfully still greater service, I am,

Very truly yours,

J. J. McDADE.

Troy to McDade

San Francisco, April 20, 1915.

Dear Mr. McDade:

I am sorry that I did not get your letter in time to make a more extended reply. I thank you for your kind words, and the valuable information which you enclose.

During the past year I have visited more than forty counties in the state, making studies of land ownership, assessments, and taxation. As a result of my work, I found that the owners of large ranches like the O'Neill-Flood property pay but a small tax as compared to that paid by the farmers who improve their farms, and do the real work of building up the communities.

This condition is not the fault of the assessors, but of the law which compels the assessment of all property. It is our system of taxation which is to blame. The letter which you enclose from the assessor of Orange county shows the assessment on improvements of the O'Neill-Flood property to be $450. Any farmer who is farming the land, even with as low as five or ten acres, will have more valuable improvements, and have to pay more taxes on them.

I have figured out the tax per acre, from the data in the letters you send me. I find that in Orange county the O'Neill-Flood tax amounts to 18 cents per acre, and in San Diego county to less than 16 cents per acre. In both of these counties, I found farmers with small acreage paying from $5 to $10 per acre in taxes. Yet, these same farmers are often assessed on their land for the same sum per acre as large owners. Their tax per acre is so high because of their improvements and personal property being assessed.

From the little opportunity I had of observing the assessments made by Mr. Sleeper, the assessor of Orange county, I came to the conclusion that he is one of the best assessors in the state. He largely increased the assessment of the Irvine lands, and the large oil companies that had paid but a small tax under the previous assessor. I believe he tries to assess all taxpayers equitably.

In San Diego county the county assessment is quite low on all property. In fact, the total assessment of the county is about the same as the total assessment levied on the city of San Diego by the city assessor. But I did not find any evidence of inequality in the county assessment. I believe that all taxpayers are assessed in approximately the same proportion of their property. This, of course, applies to land values. Improvements are difficult of appraisal, and their assessment requires expert valuation.

In most of the counties the allowance for the assessor's office will not permit of the employment of such experts. Personal property is beyond the reach of the assessor. The statement of the taxpayer must be accepted as to its value, although under the law he makes no oath as to that value. Small owners generally make honest statements, and their property is difficult of concealment.

The remedy for this condition is to exempt all personal property and improvements from taxation, and collect all taxes from the value of the land. Land value is easy of ascertainment. Every taxpayer would know if his neighbor was being properly assessed. Industry would be relieved of a heavy burden, and the large land monopolies would be compelled to put their land to its highest use or permit others to do so. They could not hold out for use for speculation.

Trusting that this will answer your purpose, I am,

Sincerely yours,

EDWARD P. E. TROY.

'MISSING' MAN IS NOT MISSING; HE'S SAFE

Mysterious Phone Message Leads to Groundless Suspicion of Foul Play

Had L. W. McCracken, of the Bradley Apartments, corner Fourth and Broadway, telephoned there from Los Angeles after 6 o'clock Saturday evening he would have learned that W. A. Ingram, who also lives at the Bradley Apartments, had returned. McCracken's suspicions that Ingram had mysteriously disappeared and probably met with foul play owing to the fact that he had just cashed a $400 check, would have been allayed and the police of Los Angeles and Santa Ana would have been saved the trouble of searching for the supposedly "missing" Ingram.

McCracken and Ingram went to Los Angeles Friday. In the evening McCracken came home, Ingram accompanying him to the Pacific Electric station.

When the two parted company, it was with the understanding, it seems, that Ingram was to telephone when he intended coming home.

Contrary to his usual custom, Ingram did not telephone. Ingram's wife, and others at the Bradley Apartments, became alarmed. McCracken knew that Ingram had drawn $400 from a bank in Los Angeles. Further mystery was added by the fact that Saturday an anonymous telephone call notified one of Ingram's business acquaintances in Los Angeles that he (Ingram) was in El Paso, would return shortly and would send a wire very soon.

McCracken hired an automobile and reported the supposed disappearance of Ingram to the Los Angeles police.

At 6 o'clock Ingram returned to the Bradley Apartments, setting at rest all anxiety as to his whereabouts.

At noon today McCracken said that he was at a loss to explain the mysterious telephone message received by one of Ingram's friends in Los Angeles. "Someone was probably playing a joke on Ingram," was McCracken's terse comment.

SPEED FINES ALL GO INTO TREASURY OF COUNTY

A number of Southern California cities, including San Gabriel, Hermosa Beach, El Monte, Pomona, Alhambra, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Venice and Pasadena, are going to turn over to the Los Angeles county treasury money collected in fines for violations of the state traffic laws.

When the new law went into effect some months ago, the Santa Ana City Trustees took the matter up with District Attorney West and were informing that the money could no longer go into the city treasury, but would have to go to the county's good roads fund. W. F. Heathman, then city attorney, made a similar ruling.

Santa Ana and other Orange county cities proceeded to follow the rulings of the local legal authorities. Several Los Angeles county cities, however, went ahead as of old. Now come instructions to those cities from Attorney General Webb. They must turn the money into the county treasury. Several of the cities expect to lay off their speed cops, as the cities cannot gather the fruits of the labors of the cops.

M. Good, superintendent, from the judgment of Judge W. H. Thomas of the Orange County Superior Court, were filed in the Supreme Court in Los Angeles Saturday. The amount involved is $1,638,362.

The plaintiffs are: J. C. Travis, who brought an action to recover $240,000; Mary P. Matthews, $97,200; J. W. Blee, $48,000; Dena F. Bishop, $240,000; W. A. Huff, $60,000; J. D. Thomas, $35,200; N. T. Edwards, $60,000; F. L. Ainsworth, $84,000; W. B. Tedford, $72,000; J. R. Porter, $465,562; H. C. Dawes, $68,000, and F. A. Dawes, $168,000.

The action was brought by the plaintiffs, minority stockholders in the Menges Oil Company, to recover the above amounts, on the allegation that false and untrue statements had been made to them for the purpose of causing them to sell their stock at a figure it is claimed did not represent the value of their holdings, by representing that the property of the company was not a paying one, that heavy assessments would have to be met by the stockholders.

In the lower court Judge Thomas sustained the demurrer to the second amended complaint, without leave to amend, and the appeal is to be taken direct to the California Supreme Court instead of waiting to hear from the District Court of Appeal. The demurrer alleged that there were not sufficient facts alleged to sustain a cause of action.

This case has attracted much attention in Orange county, where all of the litigants are well known. The defense has not yet put in answers to the complaints, and its case so far as allegations of facts are concerned has not been presented.

We are here, like it, making money, think we'll stay, so let's get acquainted. Good service, up-to-date automobiles at close figures with service and a real guarantee.

T. R. ON GRILL IN $50,000 LIBEL SUIT; HEARS OLD LETTERS

SYRACUSE, April 26.—Colonel Roosevelt spent an uncomfortable day on the witness stand in the Barnes libel trial, today, while Barnes' attorneys produced scores of letters they had secured from the executors of the estate of Senator Platt.

These letters disclosed the details of long and frequent correspondence and frequent consultations and acquiescence by Roosevelt to Platt's wishes in certain instances.

Other letters between Roosevelt and Barnes were produced, showing Roosevelt's sympathy with Barnes' opposition to the re-nomination of Hughes for governor of New York.

Mr. Barnes bases his action against Mr. Roosevelt on a statement made by the latter on July 22, 1914, prior to the direct primaries, held to select candidates for state offices in New York. The Colonel said on that occasion:

"In New York state we see at its worst the development of the system of bipartisan boss rule. The outcome of this system is necessarily that invisible government which the Progressive party was in large part founded to oppose. It is impossible to secure the economic, social, and industrial reforms to which we are pledged until this invisible government of the party bosses working through the alliance between crooked business and crooked politics is rooted out of our governmental system."

Mr. Roosevelt stated also that the two older parties were completely dominated by Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy. He asserted that "this rottenness" was due to the co-operation of Mr. Murphy and Mr. Barnes, acting through Governors Dix and Glynn; that "the interests of Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy are fundamentally identical, and that when the issue between popular rights and corrupt and machine ruled government is clearly drawn the two bosses will always be found fighting on the same side openly or covertly, giving one another such support as can with safety be rendered. * * * They really form the all-powerful invisible government which is responsible for the maladministration and corruption in the public offices of the state."

Colonel Roosevelt's answer is a document of 113 printed pages, and goes back into political history as far as 1893. The answer repeats that general corruption existed in the state departments.

Colonel Roosevelt further contends that he had a right to criticize individuals and events, and that his comment and criticisms were fair and privileged.

IN CRASH EACH MAN HAS LEG BROKEN

Accident Occurs on Newport Road Saturday Night, Motorbike Hits Auto

Two men were injured, each with a compound fracture of the left leg, when their motorcycle struck the fender of E. H. Ley's automobile on the Newport road Saturday night.

Sam Henry and Frank Barga, employees of the contractor at work on the state highway near Irvine, are the injured men. They were riding on a motorcycle from Newport Beach when Ley's automobile approached. Ley, who lives at the Rossmore, was well to the right side of the street, and he states that he saw the motorcycle approaching and it appeared to him to be well on its right side until just before the two met. Then the motorcycle swerved toward the automobile and struck the fender.

The motorcycle went over, and the two riders were caught beneath it. Ley stopped his machine, and quickly determined that the two men were both hurt. Ley turned his machine around and got the two men into it. He hastened with them to the Santa Ana Hospital, from which place they were later taken to the county hospital.

One man's leg is broken below the knee and the other above the knee. In each case, the broken bone was thrust through the flesh and skin. Neither man sustained any other injury than the fracture.

NEW MAYOR, NEW BROOM, CLEAN SWEEP DUE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 26.—The biggest prosperity parade probably ever staged in any city, moved through the streets today, preliminary to the installation of William Hale Thompson as mayor. The entire city joined in the celebration.

Elected by the greatest plurality ever given a major candidate in the Windy City, William Hale Thompson tonight will be formally inaugurated head of America's second largest city. Retiring Mayor Carter H. Harrison was to welcome his successor and conduct the simple but impressive ceremonies.

Thompson enters into his duties with several radical and unique policies in regard to alleviation of the unemployment problem, conduct of the city's affairs, and police warfare on crime and criminals.

Perhaps the most unique policy the new mayor has declared for is his planned fight against unemployment. It is his expressed plan to have the council vote a sum sufficient to give every patrolman on the street a dollar bill. This dollar bill is to be given, at the policeman's discretion, to men or women out of work, whom the policeman knows to be deserving. Thompson's theory is that the policeman is closer to the average citizen than all the charity organization agents in the world and is thereby the one to do such work. When this dollar is expended, it will be replaced.

As to the business side of conducting the affairs of the fourth city in the world, Thompson has declared he will endeavor, wherever possible, to surround himself with successful business men, large or small, who will be willing to emulate his example and give up four years of their lives to the work of the city.

Mayor Thompson has strong opinions regarding Chicago's crime situation. He has not yet gone into detail as to what his remedies for the wholesale robberies, street hold-ups, etc., will be, but he has said that crime and immorality can and must be checked by an honest and efficient police force. He intimated that he would try to get as chief of police a man, regardless of political affiliation, who can be absolutely fearless in upholding the laws.

KEYSTONE BALM SHACK BURNS TO GROUND

No Alarm Turned In, No Regret Expressed In the Neighborhood

Keystone Balm's house burned down last night. It was along about 3 o'clock this morning that the flames broke out. No one turned in an alarm. There is no regret in the neighborhood that the flames wiped out the shack.

Keystone Balm's name is Verity. He got his name by reason of his peculiar methods of advertising a concoction that he calls Keystone Balm. He used to travel the streets in an old wagon, elaborately written over with signs extolling the balm. With a megaphone it was his habit to tell the public about his remedy. "Money back, Keystone Balm," was the burden of his song.

Verity owns a lot on Cypress avenue, between Camille and Bishop streets. This was a one-room affair, or possibly it did have two rooms. It not only was unsightly with a covering of paint announcing Keystone Balm as the greatest remedy ever, but it was a source of annoyance to the neighborhood in more ways than one. Mexicans moved in and out, and at times it was thought tramps slept there.

So when the shack caught afire last night, possibly from a match dropped by a tramp, there was no sorrow wasted in the vicinity.

Recently a sign on the door gave Verity's address as Sawtelle.

SANTOS REYES IS RUN OVER BY AUTO, IS BADLY BRUISED

He Stepped Out From Jitney In Front of Machine Passing Slowly

Stepping out of a jitney, Santos Reyes also stepped in front of a passing automobile. He was knocked down and was run over. He escaped with severe bruises.

The jitney stopped in the middle of the road in front of Blankenbecker's store on West Fifth street. M. L. Replogle of 518 South Sycamore street was passing on his right side, and had slowed down to a speed of not over seven miles an hour, the jitney having taken all of the center of the road. Reyes suddenly jumped out of the machine, and before Replogle had a chance to apply a brake the Mexican was struck. The man fell, and the wheels of the automobile went over him.

Replogle took him to the Santa Ana Hospital. The man's face is badly bruised. No bones were broken.

FURTHER REDUCTION IN SEASON NECESSARY FOR COTTONTAILS

By HAROLD C. BRYANT
Game Expert, California Fish and Game Commission.

Rabbits may well be considered the game of the farmers and the farmer's son. It is seldom that the city sportsman goes into the country to hunt rabbits, especially if there is other game. The farmer, on the other hand, when he wishes game for the table, puts his gun over his shoulder and goes out for a rabbit hunt.

There are in California representatives which belong to two different divisions of the family. In the high mountains there live two true hares, the snowshoe rabbit and the white-tailed jack rabbit, both of which turn white during the winter. The jack rabbit of our valleys is a near relative of these mountain forms. The smaller cottontails and brush rabbits are sufficiently different from the foregoing to necessitate their being placed in a different genus.

Species of cottontails are to be found throughout the United States. In California they are to be found from the Mexican line to the Oregon line, with the exception of the northwest coast region, and from sea level to high in the mountains. Through most of this area these animals are abundant. As a rule cottontails avoid dense forests and open plains, preferring thickets of brush interspersed among trees with some open ground round about. They use the open ground for feeding and the brush for hiding places when disturbed or when resting.

From the true hares, which include the jack rabbits, the cottontail is distinguished by its much smaller size, shorter ears and the white underside to tail, conspicuous when the animal runs. The cottontail differs from the brush rabbit, the smallest of the rabbits, in having longer ears, whiter tail and grayish rather than bluish gray pelage.

The breeding season lasts from April to September or sometimes even later. The nest, which is made of leaves and grasses and lined with fur from the mother's own body, is usually made in some natural depression under rocks, stumps or weeds or in a shallow burrow. The young, which average about four, are cared for in the nest for about three weeks, after which they are left to shift for themselves. After the young leave the nest the mother appears to take no further interest in her offspring. The male parent is probably never concerned in the rearing of the young.

Although the cottontail rabbit appears to be an animal with few means of defense, yet it has highly developed powers of hearing, sight and smell. These, with its rapid powers of locomotion, and above all, its proficiency, enable it to survive in spite of the fact that it has many enemies among the predaceous mammals. The long, erect ears, and large, prominent eyes placed at the sides of the head so that the animal can see in nearly all directions at the same time, combined with the animal's protective coloration, largely compensate for the lack of other means of defense.

When moving about slowly the cottontail progresses by a series of hops, but when moving at full speed, long, rapid leaps are taken. A rabbit rarely makes any sound, but when caught or wounded it will sometimes give utterance to a harsh, plaintive cry.

The cottontail is a strict vegetarian. All sorts of herbage, such as leaves, stems, flowers, grasses and buds and bark of woody plants or trees, are taken. In fact almost any green vegetable growth is acceptable, when daintier herbage is lacking. Like the squirrel, the rabbit is not greatly disconcerted by the advent of civilization. It quickly accustoms itself to cultivated areas and feasts on the cultivated products of the farm. As a result field crops, gardens and even fruit trees are often injured. Newly planted orchards most often suffer because rabbits denude trees of the bark just above the surface of the ground. Fortunately it is the less desirable game mammal, the jack rabbit, that does most damage in this respect. In recently settled sections newly planted orchard trees are protected by some sort of mechanical device, such as wire netting or other protection placed about the trunk of the young trees, or by using a lime and sulphur wash, the same as that used for the destruction of San Jose scale. Another method sometimes used is to rub the body of the young tree with a piece of liver or freshly killed flesh. Rabbits dislike the smell of blood and fresh flesh and will avoid a tree so treated for many weeks.

The flesh of the cottontail is tender and of fine flavor and when properly prepared makes very desirable food. Although perhaps less tender than the flesh of some of the domesticated species, such as the Belgian hare, yet the flesh is of much finer flavor. Rabbits have long furnished an excellent substitute for higher priced game, for they have been both abundant and cheap. Rabbit hunting is also good sport, and since this game mammal is to be found near at hand and easily accessible, its pursuit has been extremely popular among all classes.

In all states where rabbits have been greatly reduced in numbers protection is now afforded them as a game mammal. Here in California the cottontail rabbit has been protected since 1911, when a closed season of six months and a bag limit of fifteen was given it. At the present time there is a bill in the legislature calling for a still further reduction of the open season lest the cottontail become still further reduced in numbers. Although prolific, the cottontail cannot withstand the large yearly toll taken by hunters, for this animal is perhaps more widely hunted than any other. With 150,000 hunters in the field each year, it is not surprising that a further reduction in season is necessary. Rabbits should be given sufficient protection to allow their continuance as a game species which affords food and recreation to any one who shoulders the gun.

Today's Feature Story

[By a United Press Staff Correspondent]

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The Federal Reclamation Service points with pride to the development of the Orland project in California. It preaches the doctrine of co-operation in irrigation. Preceding the opening of the project the region was one vast wheat field with ranches far apart marked by ramshackle dwellings. The community was described as dead. Today it is called one of the inspiring young districts of the Pacific coast.

Small farms, forty acres or so, have taken the place of the big wheat ranches and the farms are adorned by attractive homes. Fine dairy herds graze and the roadways are lined with shade and fruit trees. The community spirit provides enjoyable social life.

Orland's dairy industry took $90,000 from the creamery in the past year and the creamery declared a 10 per cent dividend for the benefit of the thirty-four dairymen composing it.

Speaking of dairying, on the Umatilla, Oregon, project, live dairymen have organized an association to improve the stock and encourage the purchase of more milk cows. Hermiston has a creamery that has been unable thus far to supply the demand.

A policeman's whistle for the use of the farmer's wife is becoming a recognized farm utility in some sections. It works fine, since a good one can be heard to the furthestmost corner of the average farm. If she wants the head of the family, the wife blows a blast; next, for the eldest son, two blasts; next, for the youngest, three blasts; and so following. Then, too, many wives have emergency signals in case of trouble.

Cowych School on the Yakima project in Washington, has a splendid rural high school that is proving to possess nearly all the advantages that are claimed this form of school should have. This year "Dairymen" was the first agricultural subject taken up, and already the boys are becoming very proficient in the use of a cream-testing outfit. A. J. Lashbrook, U. The feeling in the community is that the farmers' high school does a great deal to aid in solving farm problems and to make farms profitable and farm homes pleasant.

Miss Serene Helen Blue, age 27, paid the government ten cents for the deed to the smallest homestead in the United States. It is located at Turtle Lake, Minn., and is just 189 feet by 38 feet in dimension. She will farm it intensively.

PROHIBITION AND PARTISAN POLITICS

That public reforms destined to succeed eventually become of greater consequence than the association with them of the individuals, the parties, the movements that originally gave them impulse, is common experience, familiar history. Their popular adoption is almost invariably a signal for abandonment of the leadership and the organization that sustained them through their earlier years and youthful trials. Practically all the important civic reforms of the past were carried through and made operative finally by political organizations that had ignored and reviled them in the beginning and that threatened to oppose them to the end. From the reform movement headed by Cobden and Bright in England to the reform movement headed by Garrison and Phillips in the United States no quarter ever came from tradition, no tolerance from the established order, no sympathy from political organization, until the fight was practically won.

Socialistic measures are constantly being adopted in the United States, but not through the direct instrumentality of a socialistic party. Single tax is gradually taking hold of American thought and gradually finding modified acceptance in the United States, but not through the direct agency of a single tax political party. Prohibition is making tremendous headway in the United States, but this is rather at the expense than to the profit of the Prohibition political party. In fact the growth of prohibition sentiment points to the early extinction of the party that has fought for it through thick and thin for two generations.

As in the case of other great reform movements, there are signs that point directly to the absorption of the Prohibition party by one or the other of the two principal political organizations. It is at least among the probabilities that, after the national conventions of next year, the Prohibition party will become simply a memory. Leading Republicans, in view of the trend of national thought, are already speculating on the subject of a prohibition plank in the next national Republican platform. The delegates from many of the states, perhaps from a majority of them, are likely to enter the next Republican national convention bearing mandates for the submission of the anti-liquor issue to the people.

William J. Bryan has spoken plainly on this question as a Democratic leader. He is not at present prepared to say that prohibition should be adopted as a political issue by the Democratic party, but he advises Democrats to stand for prohibition in their states; he asks that the influence of the liquor interests in Democratic politics be destroyed; he all but raises the standard of prohibition and invites right-thinking Democrats everywhere to rally around it.

Plainly, either the Republican party or the Democratic party will soon accept prohibition as perhaps the greatest political fact and the strongest partisan issue of the period. Possibly before the summer of 1916 is past both the Republican and Democratic parties will have accepted prohibition as a doctrinal article. The question of interest remaining in this connection, as we regard it, is, Which one will adopt it first, fully and freely? Who shall say but priceless political advantage will lie with that party?—Christian Science Monitor.

WALL STREET ADVANCE

Not for some years has there been seen such a sharp advance in securities as those recently recorded. People who contemplate investment should reflect carefully on the way in which Wall Street arrives at its opinion.

In every day trade, the sentiment of buyers and sellers is about equally balanced. From this equal balance of conflicting interest, an equilibrium is reached which usually approximates very closely to actual values.

Nine-tenths of all who dabble in stocks are buyers. They acquire stocks when they think they are low, hoping for high prices. The financial reports in the newspapers all reflect the great preponderance of buying sentiment, those who expect to make money by advances. The great majority of financial reports at any given time are cheerful, tending to encourage buying.

The balance against this great preponderance of optimism is kept up largely by the professional "bears," operators who make a business of contracting to deliver stocks at prices under the market. They thrive by the over-confidence and over-optimism of other people. They are a small minority. But the hopeful, trusting, confident public so frequently pushes prices ahead too fast that the bear gets a great many chances to work his profitable game.

It is probable that for a very large part of the time, for the past twenty years, prices of securities have been too high. They are kept there by the great preponderance of the people who want to make money by buying stocks. Wherefore the investing public should be cautious about rushing in too fast to buy securities. It is probably true that within two or three years, with the war over and business confidence fully restored, securities will be higher. But there will be many ups and downs. People who buy should take only the most solid securities, and should be prepared to lock them in their tin boxes and forget about them.

POOR SPELLERS

A report just issued by Dean Briggs of Harvard University calls attention to the incorrect spelling which is so common at the present time. Dean Briggs notes that many great men have been very poor spellers, and he finds that nowhere is American education more defective than in its failure to teach the correct use of the English language.

There are of course a great many successful men who are very poor spellers. If a man has executive ability, the gift of managing others, the fact that he spells "speech" with an "a" does not hurt much in his business. Everyone knows what he means. His underlings dare not disobey his orders, though they may snicker at his written memoranda when safely out of hearing.

In social life even the successful man will suffer from poor spelling. It will suggest that he belongs to the new rich class, and that he has had neither time nor inclination for self-culture, and is only a mongrel in everything but the single power of making money. To the young man struggling for a position in life, lack of ability to spell is somewhat more serious. A letter applying for a position that should contain several unspelled words would be reckoned that of an ignoramus. It would convey a suggestion of indolence and inefficiency.

The older people look back with regret to the Little Red Schoolhouse, where rows of buzzing youngsters used to pore over the Blue-Backed Speller by the hour. Perhaps there were as many poor spellers then as now. In those days a great many men had little or no education. Bad spelling may have attracted less attention than now. The old-fashioned school had one set method of developing the spelling habit, and that was the old-time spelling match. Competition does wake up the boys and girls wonderfully. They might dream for days over the regular spelling lesson without acquiring anything. But there was no perfunctory study when they were cramming for the Friday afternoon spelling match.

SCHOOL BASEBALL

There is a controversy in many high schools as to whether paid coaches should be provided for the baseball and football teams. When paid coaches were first introduced in college life there was a protest from those who took the purely scholastic view of university education. These are days of progress, and now many high schools need a paid coach if the ball team is to win any games.

In some cases the paid coaches are not a high type of men. They teach the boys slippery tricks, not consistent with the ideals of clean sport and their language and conduct may be far from elevating. If paid coaches are hired they should be a high type of fellows, whose association will be helpful to the boys. No doubt such men could be found to do this work.

In a good many schools a combination is arranged by which a teacher is hired, with the understanding that he is competent to coach athletic teams and is to give part of his time to this purpose. To many of the tax-payers it seems as if things were going pretty fast, when they have to pay to teach their boys baseball. But if the boys are to play interschool contests, they ought to play them well. A blundering, losing team hurts the enthusiasm of the school. For that reason some expert coaching seems an essential part of modern school life.

Where the boys can pay the bills themselves out of their own gate receipts it is a far more normal arrangement than asking the tax-payers to foot the cost. The coach who is hired to do both teaching and coaching frequently makes a failure of both. Placing the responsibility on the boys for financing their own team, coach included, stimulates their ambition and is quite a little business training. Also a well drilled ball team is a much better drawing card to the public, so that good coaching may pay its own way.

Increases in Population

At a recent meeting in San Francisco Matt I. Sullivan quoted figures to show the comparative growth of California cities during the last four years. Mr. Sullivan claimed the figures were compiled by federal government officials. He gave them as follows:

Sacramento 42.5 per cent
Los Angeles 37.5 per cent
Long Beach 37.5 per cent
Berkeley 28 per cent
San Diego 23.6 per cent
Oakland 21 per cent
Alameda 12.6 per cent
San Francisco 7.5 per cent

Telephoning Across Continent

Officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company say that while the telephone line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific coasts is still in a experimental stage, about 25 or 30 cities have been connected with it. Most of these cities lie directly along the route. No effort has yet been made to develop public use of the transcontinental phone, but it has been in demand far more than was anticipated. It will probably be several months before the line is placed in active commercial use.

Beet Sugar Industry
Fifteen million dollars is the estimate of what the beet sugar industry promises Southern California this year. The campaign in the factories begins in July, the refined product will commence coming to market late in that month and the season will close in November. The production last year from the ten beet sugar factories in the State was 3,380,430 bags of 100 pounds each. Seven of the ten factories are located in Southern California, the output of which was 2,405,699 bags. The bulk of beets grown for the Southern California factories are produced in Los Angeles and Orange counties, the acreage in the latter county aggregating 50,000 acres.

Demand for Ripe Olives
That the publicity given the olive industry of California through the Olive Day celebration has borne fruit is evidenced by the demand for olives which are pouring in on growers here from all over the country.

AUSTRALIAN BOYS TO BE HERE FOR CONCERT TUESDAY OF THIS WEEK

To transplant from the Antipodes to America a realistic portrayal of family pioneer life in the outback settlements of Australia is the aim of the Australian student tourists who are to present a program in this city at the Grand Opera House, Tuesday evening.

Nothing more ambitious has ever been attempted by a group of boys, and high as they aspired, they have reached the summit of what they tried for by large expenditure on scenic effects, properties and costumes. Combined with the unusual talents and careful training of the boys they have succeeded in producing a musical comedy, which in the words of one of the leading theatrical critics of Australia, "has a breath of eucalyptus and a whiff of bushland life in every line." The production represents a triumph in character presentations, practically every type which is peculiar to the Australian bush being seen during the action of the piece. There is a regular plot throughout the program.

The central figure is Dave Pearson, who has been selected to tour the United States. In celebration of the event, his old dad invites to the home-stand the neighbors from the surrounding districts, and the merry party is joined by an elder son, a naval lieutenant, who is accompanied by a bunch of sailors.

Cowpunchers, hobos, farmers, mounted policeman and girls appear by impersonation, all assisting to give variety to a very excellent production.

The second half of the program is made up of vaudeville, gymnastic, athletic, dancing and female impersonations. Quite a feature of the evening performance will be the incidental music by the orchestra of wind and stringed instruments, while the thirty-two-piece band will close the program with a rendition of choice selections.

It Wasn't Safe Gasoline
A farmer, in looking his car over one day, thrust a lighted match into the gasoline tank. The ensuing explosion laid him up for several weeks. On the first day that he was able to be about he visited the storekeeper who had sold him the stuff and demanded compensation.

"Why should I pay you anything," asked the merchant hotly. "It was your own fault. You knew it was gasoline."

"That's all right, but this accident was caused by defective gasoline."

"Defective gasoline?"

"Yes, sir. I've been sticking matches into gasoline that I've bought here before, and this was the first lot that ever acted that way."—New York Times.

Truly a Great Invention
"I reckon," said Farmer Corntassel, "as how mobbe barbed wire ought to be counted as one of the most useful inventions of the age."

"For what reason?"

"When there's a lot o' work to be done barbed wire makes it impossible to sit on the fence and look on."

The Inevitable Result
The manager of a vaudeville house was testing the abilities of a few candidates for stage honors one day last week and this is how he let down one of the would-be funny men:

"Your songs won't do for me. I can't allow any profanity in my theatre," said he.

"But I don't use profanity," was the reply.

"No," said the manager, "but the audience would."

Meant No Harm

In a certain suburban home is a large green parrot with a reputation for loquacity; also a small-sized lad named Willie. One day mother heard a commotion that sounded like the parrot, and on cautiously investigating found Willie standing before the cage.

"Willie," exclaimed mother as she entered the room, "what are you doing?"

"Nothin'," was the ready rejoinder of Willie, "Jes' lookin' at the parrot."

"Don't tell me a story, Willie," said mother severely. "You were trying to teach the bird to swear."

"No, I wasn't, mamma," stoutly everted the youngster. "I was only tellin' him what he mustn't say."

Without Prejudice

A worker in one of the mission settlements was speaking to some waterfront boys with reference to Roman history. He touched upon the doings of Nero, giving a vivid picture of the cruelty of the emperor. Then he began to ask a few questions.

"Boys, what do you think of Nero?"

Silence, broken only by an uneasy shifting of the lads in their seats.

"Well, Clancy," said the lecturer, taking an individual appeal, "what do you think of Nero? Would you like to know him?"

Clancy hesitated. Finally, after again being urged to reply, he did so in these words:

"Well, he never done nothin' to me."

A Ringin' Reply

Jaunting in the jungle has seeningly added orchids to the speech with which Mr. Roosevelt ornaments his social repartee, as the following incident will show.

A friend of the Colonel's is the father of six daughters, who have recently acquired a sailboat. One of the girls was showing the craft to the former president a short time ago, when he said, with a puzzled frown:

"But I can't see the fitness of the boat's name: Chimes. Why did you call it that?"

"Oh," smiled the girl. "You see it's named after us—Charlotte, Hortense, Isabel, Mildred, Elsie and Sylvia. We just used the first letter of our names in order of age, and it happened that they spelled 'Chimes'."

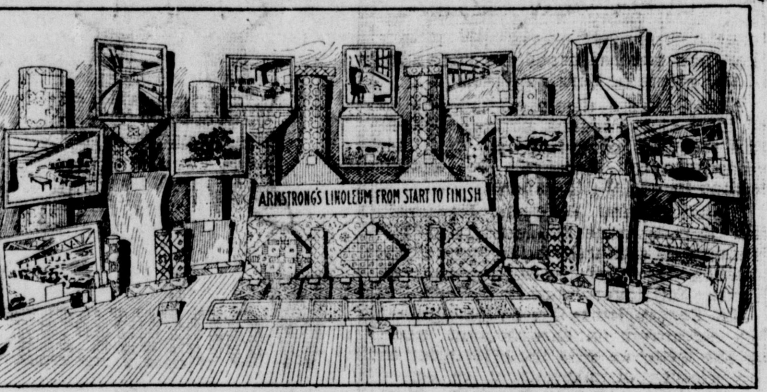

"Yes, yes, I see. Very appropriate," was the Colonel's ready reply. "In fact, no name could be more so."

INSPIRING ADDRESS

Subject of "Playgrounds" Made Interesting By State Chairman

Those who attended the meeting of the City Federation of Parent-Teacher associations on last Friday evening heard the subject of "Playgrounds" very thoroughly given by Miss Bessie D. Stoddard, state chairman of Playgrounds and a member of the Los Angeles Playgrounds committee. Miss Stoddard gave a splendid talk and then illustrated the same by stereoscopic views of the eight different playgrounds of Los Angeles and of the municipal camps now open in San Bernardino county. The playgrounds in the city of Los Angeles are supported by funds appropriated for the same by the city. Each playground has a clubhouse with a manager. Almost all cities of the size of Santa Ana are now taking steps towards establishing a playground and it is to be hoped that this city will not be behind in this splendid philanthropic work, and that we will have a playground for the children of this city.

Some splendid musical numbers were given at this meeting, by a number of the young folks. Miss Thomas gave a violin solo, accompanied by Miss Richards. A piano and violin duet was given by Donna and Kenneth Horton. Miss Helen Sylvester, who possesses a very rich and pleasing voice, sang "In the Garden of My Heart." She was accompanied by Miss Bertha Miller.

Mrs. K. H. McElree, who has served as president for the past three years, was urged to again act as president with the following officers who were elected:

First Vice President—W. M. Clayton.

Second Vice President—Miss Maude Jones.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Lea Warren.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Horace McPhee.

Financial Secretary—Mrs. Iva Weber.

Treasurer—Mrs. J. M. Cain.

Parliamentarian—Mrs. J. R. Baker.

The next meeting will be held Friday, June 18.

PLEASANT AFTERNOON

Mrs. Hervey Entertains Complimentary to Teachers of Her Little Daughters

Miss Josephine Hervey, who attends Intermediate School, is very fortunate in having the instruction of eight competent teachers and, though her sister of Jefferson school takes her course of study under but one instructor, the "quality" makes up for a vast amount of "quantity."

Saturday afternoon Mrs. A. R. Hervey entertained, complimenting the teachers of her winsome little daughters, the guests bringing their fancy work and enjoying a delightful social time.

Cecil Bruner hoses, artistically massed in a large bowl, made pretty living-room decorations, and at the close of the pleasant afternoon, delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Hervey, ably assisted by her two daughters.

Among those present were Misses Nellie Clinean, Lucy Carter, Verna Peterson, Nellie Marie Remsburg, Maude Wherry, Hazel Bemis, Besse McCord and Fannie Pease of Intermediate school and Miss Linda Paul of Jefferson school.

Entertains for Friends

Mrs. G. N. Greer opened her attractive home in hospitality Saturday afternoon to the ladies of the Reformed Presbyterian Church. The rooms were beautifully decorated with a profusion of pink and white Maman Cochet roses and the affair, which honored a group of out-of-town friends, was attended by a large number of ladies who were delighted with this opportunity of becoming better acquainted with Mrs. Greer's friends.

A variety of interesting games entertained the company. Music also added to the pleasure of all. Later a dainty two-course collation in which the color motif of pink and white was observed, was served by the charming hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. J. Lindsay and Mrs. Woodrow Steward.

Among the honored guests were Mrs. J. M. Wiley and Miss Elizabeth Miller of Kansas City, Mrs. T. J. Boyle and Mrs. Ralph Ellis of Seattle, Mrs. Stewart Wright and Miss Martha Rogers of Sparta, Illinois.

EBELL MEETING

Officers Are Quietly Elected, After Which Excellent Program Is Enjoyed

The April meeting of the Ebells Society was held on Saturday afternoon at Elks hall. The most important business transacted was the election of officers, which proved to be a remarkably "tame" affair. At the March meeting a primary election was held—an innovation in Ebells politics. The results of this primary election were kept a secret, any attempts to fathom which were promptly and emphatically discouraged. Ebells members expected that the desired information would be presented to them at Saturday's meeting, but the ballots handed out bore no names, and there was a faint ripple of surprise when the chair announced but one nominee for president. A request from the floor for the list of those receiving the highest number of votes for president on the primary ballot was ruled out of order, and the election that followed was quite without any excitement. The results showed the only presidential nominee, Mrs. C. F. Crose, to have received 98 out of the 123 votes cast. Other officers are: First vice president, Mrs. W. L. Grubb; second vice president, Mrs. W. L. Tedford; recording secretary, Mrs. Fred Wilkes; corresponding secretary, Miss Mabel McFadden; general curator, Mrs. J. E. Gowan; treasurer, Mrs. E. B. Smith. The four new directors are: Mesdames E. M. Nealley, A. J. Crookshank, C. A. Gustlin and W. W. Anderson. The ones holding over are Mrs. A. H. Lyon and Miss Minnie R. Childs.

A report from Mrs. A. J. Crookshank, chairman of the Day Nursery committee, showed $100 to have been cleared by the recent entertainments given in behalf of that institution.

Delegates to the state convention to be held in San Francisco in May were chosen as follows: Mesdames Leihy, C. F. Crose, Miss Mabel McFadden, Alternates, Mesdames J. R. Medlock, A. D. Bishop and J. E. Liebig.

The afternoon program was given by the Columbia Concert Company, consisting of Miss M. Birden Henry, dramatic reader; Mr. Harry Garstang, tenor; Mr. Richard Garstang, accompanist and piano soloist; Mr. Maurice Phillips, baritone; and Mrs. Rena Cranston, whistling soloist.

The springtime motif ran appropriately through the whole very interesting program.

Miss Henry's pleasing personality and her musical voice made her widely varying selections most enjoyable. Mr. Garstang's pleasing tenor, and Mr. Phillips' very beautiful baritone, were much appreciated, as was Mr. Richard Garstang's work both as accompanist and piano soloist. Miss Rena Cranston's whistling was a delight. The most unique part of the program was Mr. Harry Garstang's performance on the fairy bells. This instrument looks like a flat box about six inches wide by perhaps a foot about a half long. Mr. Garstang waves it about in the air in a most nonchalant fashion and there proceeds from it a bewitching melody, faint and sweet, as fairy bells should sound. The program follows:

Part First
Selection on Fairy Bells—Welsh Melodies—Mr. H. Garstang.

Readings—(a) "Home Thoughts From Abroad" (Browning), (b) "A Spring Wooing" (Dunbar), Miss Henry.

Song—"Spring Has Come" (White), Mr. Phillips.

Part Second

Song—"A Bandit's Life" (Spence), Mr. Phillips.

Whistling Solo—"The Night Birds Cooing" (Sayers), Miss Cranston.

Readings—Scotch Poems, Miss Henry.

Duet—"On to the Fields of Glory" (Donzetti), Messrs. Garstang and Phillips.

Pleasant Reunion

A pleasant reunion of relatives and friends was held yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Beatty. Miss Edna Beatty and a friend, Miss Julia Kingsbury, had arrived from Pomona College for the weekend and Miss Irene Beatty, who teaches at Fullerton, was also at home for an over-Sunday visit.

Miss Minnie Fyfe of Fullerton, a sister of Mrs. Beatty; Mrs. Ida Fast of Peoria, Ill., a cousin of the hostess; Mrs. J. C. Daugherty and Miss Helen Daugherty of South Bend, Ind., who have been spending the winter here, were among others who enjoyed the bountiful noontime dinner and social hours together.

In the afternoon the company took a delightful motoring trip with Mr. and Mrs. Beatty as hosts.

AMUSEMENTS

At Clune's
For the first three nights this week there will be presented a Broadway star feature picture, entitled "From Headquarters." The star players in this production are Anita Stewart of "A Million Dots" fame, and Earle Williams, who was the star in "The Christian."

Next Monday for three days a Broadway star feature in three parts, "From Headquarters," featuring Anita Stewart and Earle Williams.

Rose Peters, the daughter of a detective who believes there is no such thing as an excuse for crime, falls in love with her employer, William Brown. He devotes himself to her exclusively, despite the anger of her father. Matters change when Belle Waring is engaged to fill a position in his employ. Brown turns to the new beauty, ignoring the pleadings of his former charmer who is becoming an object of derision to her fellow-workers. Things come to a crisis when Rose enters the private office unexpectedly and finds Belle Waring in Brown's arms. A stormy scene follows. Rose, in a frenzy, impulsively grabs a paper-knife and stabs her employer. "I'm thinking him dead," she makes her escape from the office, but is seen by Edward Temple, a client.

Rose arrives home just as her father receives detailed information from the police sergeant in his district of the Brown assault case. Rose begs her father not to take up the case, pleading for the unknown girl who was so cruelly wronged. In her excitement, Rose goes through the motions enacted when she stabbed Brown. Her father's suspicions are aroused, and when he goes to Brown's office as an officer of the law he becomes convinced that his own daughter committed the crime. He is about to do his duty and arrest her, when she reaches him from headquarters to drop the case. Brown, repentant, and finding his wound is not fatal, has halted further investigation. He sends for Peters, confesses all, and the father returns home to his daughter with a glad heart. Brown's old love for Rose returns and he makes her his wife.

Temple Theater

"Sunshine Molly" is a wholesome comedy which has just been released by Bosworth on the Paramount Program. It features Lois Weber and Phillips Smalley in a play written by Miss Weber, and in which she takes the title role. The cast consists of such stars as Adele Farrington, Herbert Standing, Vera Lewis, Frank Elliott, Roberta Hickman, and Margaret Edwards. Every part of this play is admirably sustained. There is not a lagging moment from the introduction of the burning of the oil fields, which in itself is magnificent. This splendid production will be shown at the Temple Theater for three days beginning today.

The first release of the Paramount South American Travel pictures will be shown today and tomorrow only, in connection with the regular program.

next Republican candidate must be a man of Progressive tendencies, else he cannot be elected. The Republicans have put representation in convention upon a proper basis. States that do not cast a majority Republican vote can no longer control the convention. I believe that both Republican and Progressive leaders of the country recognize that there must be a compromise, and I believe that there will be one. The next president will be President Wilson unless a man acceptable to both Republicans and Progressives is selected.

W. L. DUGGAN, Democrat—"Times are getting better every day, and the country is going soon to enter an era of prosperity such as it has never known. Prosperity is all that is needed to insure President Wilson's re-election, and with that no combination of Republicans and Progressives can beat him. I believe the people will endorse Wilson's acts."

WALLACE W. DAVIS, Progressive—"I agree with Senator Cummins that the next President will be a Progressive Republican, but I do not think that Senator Cummins will be the man. I say this because he will be unsatisfactory to a great many Republicans."

The Praise That Comes From Thankful Santa Ana People

One kidney remedy has known merit. Santa Ana people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Santa Ana testimony proves it reliable.

S. H. Whitehead, 607 W. First St., Santa Ana, says: "For several years I had pain and weakness in my back. Lifting or the least exertion caused me to suffer. If I took cold, I was almost disabled by a distressing pain in my back. I had much trouble with the kidney secretions, too. Sometimes they passed too frequently, then again the flow was scanty and painful. I could see a change for the better after I had taken a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills. It wasn't long before all the kidney ailments were relieved.

and unsatisfactory to a great many Progressives. He will not, I think, be the man to bring the two factions together."

E. E. REMSBERG, Republican—"Senator Cummins is the strongest candidate that has as yet been suggested, I believe. He has made a good record in the Senate. I am, and always have been, a strong Republican and am in sympathy with the Progressive wing of the party. I will probably vote the Republican ticket. I think that Senator Cummins, being as he is, a Progressive Republican, would carry out to the utmost of his ability the principles for which true Progressive Republicanism stands."

S. J. JACKMAN, Progressive—"Senator Cummins has implied that he would not refuse the nomination if it is offered him. He has also let it be known, by implication, that he is the Republican who would be most likely to have the approval, not only of his own party but of the Progressive Republicans, the Progressives and Progressive Democrats. I do not believe that he is the man who would meet with this approval. A Republican, turned Progressive, who would switch back again in a crisis to the G. O. P., as Senator Cummins has done, would not be the man, in my opinion, to meet with the favor of all concerned."

REV. PAUL E. WRIGHT, Democrat—"The next president will be a Democrat because I believe that the Progressives will be strong enough once more to cause a split in the Republican ranks."

A. J. CROOKSHANK, Republican—"As a sugar factory man, I am much interested in tariff on sugar. The main issue in the next campaign will be the tariff, and in order to defeat President Wilson it is imperative that a united front be represented. I think that the next Republican platform will be Progressive, whoever the nominee for president may be. I believe that the factions in the Republican party will unite. I personally have no choice among those who have been mentioned as possible Republican nominees. I will be satisfied with any man who is a good man and right on the tariff."

DR. R. A. CUSHMAN, Republican—"In my opinion, no man will be elected unless he stands with the Progressive element of the party that advocates a protective tariff, viz., Republican. Senator Cummins is the most likely of any candidate that has so far been named to re-unite the dismembered Republican party. I have personally known Senator Cummins for years to be a Progressive Republican, and I would like to see him nominated, believing he can be elected."

WILLIAM F. MENTON, Republican—"If Senator Cummins will authorize the press to spell Progressivism with a lower-case 'p' I think that he will have more cause for belief that the next president will be a Progressive Republican."

"Nowadays every man almost virtually has to be a progressive. But there is a difference between progressive and Progressive."

"Every year party lines are becoming more and more obliterated. But in spite of this, unless the various factions in the Republican party become united, I am almost certain that Woodrow Wilson will be re-elected."

WALTER EDEN, Republican—"I am not entirely satisfied that it will be necessary for the Republican nominee to be a man of Progressive tendencies in order to win the next presidential race. There is no question in my mind but that the people realize that there should be a change back to high tariff policies, and I believe that President Wilson will be defeated."

STANLEY REINHARD, Republican—"I think that the question of who will be nominated lies between Cummins, Mann and Root. Root has practically declared that he would not accept the nomination. If Senator Cummins is nominated I think he will be elected for the reason that he is a man who will be able to unite the Republican party."

BOY'S THIGH BROKEN AS GASBIKE FALLS

TACK MEASURES BROUGHT UNDER INSPECTION OF CITY, COUNTY

SACRAMENTO, April 26.—"Tack measures" on counters of merchants selling cloth, ribbons and dry goods must be inspected by city and county sealers of weights and measures, according to an order issued by Charles G. Johnson, State superintendent of weights and measures. Tacks driven in counters, in accordance with the regulations are to be allowed to be used as measures and if found accurate the sealer is to give the merchant a certificate of accuracy.

Superintendent Johnson states in his letter to the sealers throughout the state that investigations prove that no uniformity is maintained in the use of the tack measure and that measurements are made from the inside edge of the tack, the center of the tack and the outside edge of the tack.

It now appears that C. A. Perry of 2151 Dwight Way, Berkeley, is the chief instigator of the proposal that all bachelors in California above the age of 30 should be taxed. The measure, which was introduced by Assemblyman Browne of Tuolumne, was sent by Perry to Assemblyman Rigidon of San Luis Obispo, who gave it to Browne. Rigidon has received a letter from Perry, in which he says:

"The more I think of it, the more I am convinced that it would be the thing to help make up the shortage in this state due to the loss of poll tax, as the bachelor does not have any family to support, and it would be the only tax that a large number of Japanese, Chinese, Greeks and others would pay for the support of the government."

The non-partisan primary act which has passed both houses, was given the governor Saturday and now awaits his signature. There was some delay in the revised printing of the bill, after which it was carefully gone over by the Assembly Committee on Enrollment, in order that it should be typographically perfect. It is believed that it will be signed by the governor this week.

AT THE COURT HOUSE

JURY IS CHOSEN FOR TRIAL OF FUMIGATOR LASWELL

The men sworn today to try A. Laswell of Orange, charged with burglary are William Mills, Addison Rush, William Rockwell, C. O. Cline, R. E. Beswick, H. F. Shorting, J. S. Law, Rupert Best, Alfred Shroobree, Joseph Baker, A. F. Swift and J. H. Cochran.

In his opening statement to the jury Deputy District Attorney Koepsel stated that Laswell is charged with burglary under the law. The prosecution does not contend that Laswell entered the building of the Foothill Valencia Growers at Orange, but it does contend that he directed three youths who did the stealing with an understanding that he would buy cyanide stolen by them.

"Laswell is a fumigator," said Koepsel. "He told the boys where the cyanide was, and he directed them how to get it. He agreed to and did buy some of it, paying $30 a sack for the stolen property."

The first witness called was J. D. Spenetta, secretary of the Foothill Valencia Growers, from whose packing house six cases of cyanide were stolen on January 4 by Willard Shadel, Vernon Thompson and Farley Sutton. These three youths pleaded guilty to the burglary, and are now out on probation. In the preliminary they testified against Laswell, and will be called as witnesses in the trial now commenced in the superior court. Zenus Watson, who several weeks ago pleaded guilty to another theft of cyanide, said by him to have been sold to Laswell, was in court today.

The jury was selected this morning. Deputies Koepsel and Eden appearing for the district attorney's office and Attorneys W. M. Brown and H. C. Head appearing for Laswell.

M. O. Ainsworth, Henry Poptien and Walter Leiby were excused from the jury by Judge West for cause. The prosecution dismissed E. R. Williams, William Bathgate, J. L. Knesel, R. J. Fyffe and Arthur West, all of whom are from Orange except Williams, who formerly lived at Orange. The defense excused C. Lambert, G. W. Stevens, Jerome Fulson, J. W. Shirley, F. Stearns, J. H. Maley, M. A. Clever, C. H. Howard and W. F. Crist.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT

TWO MORE MEXICANS TAKEN IN STANTON BURGLARY CASE

Sheriff Now Has Six Men He Thinks Were Connected With Thieving Gang

An even half dozen Mexicans are now in jail accused by Sheriff Jackson and Constable Murillo with having had something to do with burglarizing stores at Tustin, Delhi and Stanton. Yesterday the sheriff went to Los Alamitos and took Rufino Jimenez and Enrique Perez into custody. The officers also recovered two pairs of shoes identified as among the lot stolen from Romer's store at Tustin.

Some of the Mexicans will probably be charged with receiving stolen goods. The officers are working up their evidence, and actions will probably be brought against six Mexicans this week.

Had a Beet Knife

Saturday afternoon Sheriff Jackson was driving along the road near Westminster when he saw a Mexican. The Mexican was hunched up as though he was hiding something. The officer stopped and made a search of the individual, with the result that a big beet knife wrapped in paper was disclosed. The man, Sebastian Martinez, was taken to jail. He is charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Heying is Trouble

Under Sheriff Iman went to Los Alamitos yesterday afternoon and returned with Walter Heying, who is accused of having violated his parole. He was charged with being habitually intoxicated. He promised to reform, and was given a chance. Yesterday Iman was informed that Heying was intoxicated.

McCoy went on trial a second time today, facing the same charge in connection with the slaying of John Byerley, whom he found with his wife. McCoy probably will depend on the defense of temporary insanity, which was successful in the first trial. The double slaying occurred on December 1, 1914.

Later they were taken on an automobile trip through Tustin, Lemon Heights and Orange, the trip occupying about three-quarters of an hour. This evening the boys will be the guests of Manager Schlessinger at the Temple Theatre. The boys express themselves as delighted with Santa Ana and surrounding districts.

TAKING CARE OF THE CHILDREN

No parent would consciously be careless of the children. Joe A. Rozmarin, Clarkson, Neb., uses Foley's Honey and Tar for his two children for croup, coughs and colds. He says, "We are never without Foley's Honey and Tar in the house." A distressing cough, sleepless nights, and raw, inflamed throat lead to a run-down condition in which the child is not able to resist contagious or infectious diseases. Foley's Honey and Tar is truly healing and prompt in action. It relieves coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Rowley Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Well—everyone knows the effect of Pine Forests on Coughs. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is a remedy which brings quick relief for Whooping Cough, loosens the mucous, soothes the lining of the throat and lungs, and makes the coughing spells less severe. A family with growing children should not be without it. Keep it handy for all Coughs and Colds. 25c at your druggist. Electric Bitters a Spring Tonic.

When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

SPANISH PLAY PLANNED BY H. B. CLASS

Foreign Language Section of High School to Invite County to Attend

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 26.—For the third successive year the foreign language department of the high school will give a language night to which will be invited, not only the local patrons of the school but also students and teachers from the language departments of the neighboring high schools in the county. The play to be given this year is "Zaraguetta," commonly read in the Spanish classes as a part of the regular work. The story of the play has to do with a college student who gets deeply in debt to a money lender, Zaraguetta, who is very deaf. In order to pay this debt he endeavors to secure money from an uncle who is rich on the ground that he has become seriously ill and must go away for an operation. Just as the ruse is about to succeed Zaraguetta appears and partly on account of his deafness and his costume is mistaken for a famous doctor from Madrid and receives a large sum of money for his services. The cast of characters is as follows: Don Indalecio, a wealthy farmer... Lloyd Stearns Carlos, his nephew, a student in Madrid... Albert Isener Don Satorio, village doctor... Glen Miller Zaraguetta, Madrid money lender... Lionel Stearns Pio, son of Blossa, eager to be a priest... Clarence King Perice, a servant... Loyal Hughes Ambrosio, village pack driver... Hartsel Gray Dona Dolores, wife of Indalecio... Estelle Vandruft Maruja, his niece... Jessie O'Howell Dona Blossa, sister of village priest... Hazel Harding Gregoria, a servant... Hazel Adams Carlos and Maruja are cousins and orphans dependent upon their aunt and uncle. The play is being staged under the direction of Miss Vida Ross, head of the department.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS SHOWN AT FULLERTON

Fullerton Tribune: The Fullerton Union high school has received from the Bureau of Commercial Economics, Philadelphia, the first consignment of more than 150 vocational guidance motion pictures, for use in the schools of California. They were sent direct to this city, where they have already been shown, and will be further exhibited before they are sent on their rounds of about twenty high schools of the southern part of the state, or to all that possess motion picture machines, hence can utilize the films. Among the educational films, all of which the quite instructive and interesting, are those showing in the most realistic manner the process of farming with dynamite, the making of a pair of shoes, and there are three films on the milk chocolate industry. More of these vocational pictures will be received by the local school in relays for use here, then to be passed along, as instructions direct.

WILL GET SEALS ORANGE COUNTY FOR CONCRETE ENCLOSURE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 26.—Following the return of the seal which was turned loose last week and soon after returned, the seal colony has been permanently reduced by the death of the baby seal. Efforts will be made, however, to secure two or three additional seals and place them in a large concrete tank built for the purpose. Several citizens have stated that they were willing to do the necessary work if the city will furnish the material.

John Kettler of near Wintersburg is planning to plant seventy acres of his ranch to lima beans this year.

F. E. Brown, a building contractor of Seal Beach has begun the construction of a five room bungalow at the corner of Huntington avenue and Detroit street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Higgins are rejoicing over the arrival of an eleven pound boy. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lake are also the parents of a boy born last week. A white Minorca egg measuring 4 1/2 by 4 1/2 inches has been placed on display. This is the first of the small eggs to receive notoriety. The hen belongs to W. R. Higgins.

What Retards Prosperity Nudging by National and State legislators is given by best known financiers of the country as the principal reason why prosperity in the United States is retarded. Now is the time when the country should be enjoying the greatest prosperity but the attitude of legislators has been such that capital has become discouraged and sales of long term bonds which are business has been prevented by the hostility of the lawmakers. Too much regulation, too many board of commissions has played havoc in general.

Emergency Currency Outstanding. Emergency currency, amounting to $1,181,955, was outstanding at the close of business March 31, according to an announcement by the Comptroller of the Currency. Arizona was among ten States to have retired all emergency currency issued to national banks. Of that still outstanding, California holds about nine per cent.

ODD FELLOWS CELEBRATE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 26.—Today is the 96th anniversary of the founding of the lodge of Odd Fellows, and Orange county Odd Fellows and their families are celebrating here. It has been customary in Orange county to hold an all day picnic at Orange County Park in honor of the occasion. For a number of years past, leading members of the local lodge have been endeavoring to convince the county organization that it would be more suitable to hold this annual function at Huntington Beach rather than in the interior. Last year they succeeded in securing the promise of the lodges that for 1915 at any rate the picnic should be held here. They promised an entertainment which would delight the visitors and in carrying out their plans hope to make it so agreeable that the celebration will be made an annual affair at Huntington Beach. The chief attraction this time is a barbecue and free coffee. It had been planned to repeat the minstrel show so successfully given by the Woman's club for the benefit of the visiting Odd Fellows but as it was found that many of them would be unable to remain for an evening performance the plan was given up. The local lodge of Odd Fellows is one of the strongest fraternal organizations in Huntington Beach and numbers among its members most of the city officials and many leading members of the Board of Trade. There is a big crowd present today.

American Express in Bay City The American Express Company has made an agreement with the Western Pacific railroad receivers by which it secures exclusive right to transport its traffic over the Western Pacific from Salt Lake to San Francisco. It supplants the Gould Express Company, a corporation owned by the Denver & Rio Grande railroad and operations will begin May 1. The American Express has heretofore had its California terminal in Los Angeles only.

Foundations of all Wealth

(From L. A. Financial News.)

Before the real estate association of Los Angeles at its meeting at the Alexandria Hotel, Thursday, were several speakers among them Jackson A. Graves, vice president of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank of Los Angeles. Mr. Graves is a pioneer of Los Angeles. He has seen this greatest city on the Coast grow up from a village to its present size. His theme naturally was real estate, and he talked about the foundation of all wealth—Land. Incidentally he expressed his views on some other matters. Mr. Graves spoke as follows:

Mr. President, and Members of the Los Angeles Realty Board:

I have been frequently asked by many a poor fellow who was sitting on the lid, trying to keep the foreclosure of a mortgage from getting out and destroying him—"What makes real estate dull?"

Land—real estate—is the foundation of all wealth. What the land produces is absolutely necessary for the life of the human race. Stop agricultural production and life ceases. So important is the industry of making things grow upon land, that every other industry known to man has originated as an aid to, or as a result from, crop production.

Commerce has been fostered primarily to move food products from point of production to point of consumption, and, incidentally, to move manufactured articles, or things mined from the earth itself, from point of production to point of consumption.

Cities are but incidents of agricultural pursuits, dependent entirely upon the existence and success of agriculture and its many branches.

In view of the importance of land as a commodity, it is but natural that your real estate men should be proud of your calling. And right here I want to congratulate this Board upon its present work. You are engaged in driving every dishonest real estate crook out of the business. You are taking the same position as to real estate dealers as the Clearing House Association of this City took in 1907, and as a result many crooked crooked bankers. Much good will result to the public from your efforts, and your business standing in the community will be very much enhanced.

Past and Present

"It is a long way to Tipperary," and a long way from the beginning to present conditions in Los Angeles. It is even a long way to present conditions here from June, 1875, when I arrived here. No human being can picture Los Angeles as it then was, contrasted with Los Angeles as it is now. Think of a city of seven thousand inhabitants, fully one-half of whom were Mexicans. Think of a business area extending from the Pioche Street and Bufiled Block, on Main Street and North Spring Street, and a very light overflow of business onto Los Angeles Street, Commercial Street, and the lower end of Temple Street! Think of miles of orchards and vineyards in the city limits! No elevator, no telephone, no electricity, just the "button" of the street car system, an inadequate water supply, not a foot of paved street, not an inch of cement sidewalks, not a theater, not a market house, but a few good dwellings, only a couple of school-houses, and, Thank God! no agitators.

The history of the real estate business from that day to this has been a history of successes and reverses, of upward movements and downward depressions. There was a boom in real estate in Los Angeles when I arrived here. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company was about finishing its line from San Francisco to Los Angeles. It had already commenced to build its line to New Orleans. That line was purchased by Standard Oil, four miles this side of Pomona. Senator John P. Jones had commenced a line of railroad which was to run from Santa Monica to Independence in Inyo County.

All of these things stimulated an inquiry for Los Angeles real estate. Some large ranches had recently changed hands. E. J. Baldwin had bought from Newmark & Co. the Santa Anita Rancho of 16,000 acres. Jones and Baker had just acquired the San Vicente and Boca de Santa Monica Ranches. Col. Dan Freeman had just purchased of Sir Robert Burnett the Centinella properties. Downey and Hellman had sold off the Santa Gertrudes, in small tracts. Old man Compton had purchased and subdivided and was selling a portion of the Tajata Ranch at Compton. Lankershim and Van Nuys had bought the south half of the San Fernando, and George K. and B. F. Porter and Charles Macley were completing the purchase of the north half of the same property. Subdivisions of the San Rafael Rancho had just begun. The Indiana Colony had acquired and were improving the present site of Pasadena. In the city itself there was some movement in real estate. From two to five hundred dollars could have been bought any unimproved lot on Main, Spring or Broadway south of Second Street. Subdivisions had recently been made of some outlying property. The real estate artist had already learned the trick of brass bands and free lunches as an aid to lot selling. Everybody was drinking champagne. This was in June, 1875.

When Matters Looked Dark

Three months later, the Bank of California in San Francisco, and Temple and Workman's Bank in Los Angeles, failed. Senator Jones threw up his project to build to Independence, and sold as much of his road as was completed to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. It immediately completed the line from Los Angeles to Santa Monica. But real estate became a drug in the market. By October 1st, 1875, the champagne drinkers were glad to get a poor quality of beer. At that time, the agricultural possibilities of the country were undiscovered. Our water development had not begun. Then came two or three dry years. Cattle and sheep which were not driven to other pastures died by thousands. One-half of the property in the county changed hands on foreclosure. E. J. Baldwin acquired some 55,000 acres of the Puente Rancho, many more acres in the La Merced and Cienega Ranches, with 120 feet on Spring Street nearly opposite the old Court House, upon the foreclosure of a heavily mortgaged of $75,000 or $125,000. I forget which, which bore interest at 14 per cent per month. The days of 1875 were financially dark. Transactions in real estate were almost nil. Here is a copy of the real estate transactions for October 29, 1875. (Produces it.) Look at it. Compare it with a copy of The Los Angeles Daily Journal of today, and even now we are in dull real estate times.

In the meantime, the railroad to San Francisco had been completed. The Southern Pacific had built into Arizona, and other products to Arizona, and others followed his lead. New industries were introduced. Strangers came here, and stayed. They brought in needed capital. They brought themselves rich in real estate at ridiculously low figures.

Collapse of First Boom

Then the Santa Fe Railroad was thought about, next talked about, and at last actually built. With its completion, an unprecedented movement of people to Southern California began. Pomona was put on the map. Other settlements followed and succeeded. The first thing we knew we had a boom on. It became a cyclone, a financial hurricane. It collapsed in 1886, as the result of the election of Cleveland in 1894, and swept many off their feet. By 1890 it had spent its force. Financially, we looked like the beach of Venice and Ocean Park after the last winter's storm. Fortunes vanished. Margins were wiped out. Calamity followed in the wake of prosperity. I spent nearly ten busy years foreclosing mortgages and contracts for sale of real estate. Had the Security Savings Bank of this city kept title to all of the real estate it took in under foreclosure, it would now be worth millions where it is worth dollars.

Under President Harrison's administration there was a return of prosperity. The citrus industry had grown enormously. Then came Cleveland's second administration, beginning in March, 1893. The panic of 1893 followed. Cleveland, however, was not responsible for the panic. Nearly every bank in Los Angeles closed its doors (The Farmers and Merchants Bank did not). Financial gloom followed. The Wilson tariff was enacted in 1894. That brought bankruptcy to the nation. No man in Southern California made a dollar out of oranges while that tariff was in effect.

In 1897 President McKinley was inaugurated. The Dingley tariff bill was immediately passed. Its effect was electrical. All of our industries revived. Fifteen years of unparalleled prosperity followed. In Southern California we got the full benefit of the prosperity which prevailed throughout the nation. The real estate owner came into his own. During that period the magnificent development of this entire region occurred.

From what I have just stated, it is indelibly stamped upon my mind, that under a protective tariff, America, and all of her industries flourish; that under a tariff for revenue only, which the Democratic party gives us as soon as it gets into power, and which does not even produce revenue, America and all her industries suffer.

Trouble Begins

Now, notwithstanding the prosperity I have just depicted, trouble was brewing. The land was filled with demagogues. The politicians groveled at the feet of the labor unions. Class hatred was engendered. Roosevelt inaugurated a campaign of oppression for every man in the nation who had a dollar. Corporations and capital were directly assailed. Investigation followed investigation. A lying press and the muck-raking magazine kept up the clamor, until it became a popular fallacy, even among those who had prospered at the hand of capital, to picture the capitalist as a creature with horns and a tail, whose soul occupation was brigandage and robbery.

A split in the Republican party led to the restoration of the Democratic party to power and the election of Woodrow Wilson, a man highly intelligent but of socialistic tendencies, to the Presidency. The party itself had gathered to its bosom all that was socialistic and anarchistic in the nation. For the first time in the history of the nation, the labor unions got a representative in the President's Cabinet. The result of the return of the Democratic party to power was what could have been expected, financial disaster. The business which you gentlemen were engaged in, froze up. It won't thaw out until there is a change in the administration. The troubles in Mexico deeply affected it. The European War has been a God-send to the Democratic party, in that it has created a demand for our products, which has to some extent relieved the business depression of the nation.

Let Us Be Honest

Such are some of my reasons for any present depression in local real estate. But let us be entirely honest with ourselves in this matter. I believe, and I think most of you will admit, that we have got prices of real estate throughout Southern California, and the rental values thereof, too high. This result came about gradually, and almost unconsciously. People will ask for real estate what they can get for it, and an active market such as we have had for ten or fifteen years, will naturally result in high, if not inflated, prices. Had there been no hard times, had not the values of all property and of all commodities throughout the nation, shrunk, real estate prices here would have been maintained. And I predict that real estate prices will recover in this vicinity more rapidly than they will in any other place in the nation. With the next upward movement prices will go higher than they ever were.

I want to call your attention to a most singular state of affairs regarding this city. During her darkest days since 1878, this city has advanced, often without at the time realizing it. From 7,000 inhabitants in 1875, she grew to 13,000 in 1880. The five years from 1875 to 1880 were the darkest in her financial history. From 13,000 in 1880 she ran up to 54,000 in 1890, and that decade was one of depression. From 54,000 inhabitants in 1890 she grew to 101,000 in 1900, and to 319,000 in 1910. The people came here notwithstanding the financial depression which prevailed, and they are coming here now.

During all of the upward trend of our affairs, the honest, conscientious real estate dealer has been an important factor in our development. Your business, like any other business, requires skill, honesty, nerve, discretion, energy and untiring industry, to make it a success. Moreover, the real estate agent should be educated to his business.

Another Trouble in California

Another thing that has affected not only real estate but the value of everything else in California, is the fact that her people have become political lunatics. They have listened to the siren song of the so-called Progressive politician, and as a result, voted in the direct primary, the initiative, the referendum and the recall, all of which are political frauds. None of these measures have accomplished anything for the good of society. They have, however, largely increased our rate of taxation.

They have driven decent people out of politics, and left all offices to be filled by the "Holler than thou" piously hypocritical. As soon as one of them is elected to office he chants "The Lord is my Shepherd. I shall not want." This condition has been brought about by the alluring cry of "Let the People Rule." Under this cry there has been built up the most powerful, the most extravagant, the most arrogant and the most corrupt political machine that California has ever known. That machine is now taking steps to doctor the recall, so that "Holy Hiram" (who, I suppose, is to remain Governor for the rest of his natural life) shall appoint any and all State officials who are to fill vacancies caused by the application of the recall.

Here in Los Angeles, cranks, long-haired and otherwise, theorists and hypocrites, dominate our elections. Everybody is being regulated by statute or ordinance, until it is necessary for your wife to carry her marriage certificate with her, if she is out after dark, to avoid arrest. I believe it would not be a bad thing to allow Job Harriman to be elected Mayor of Los Angeles. Twice the business men of this city, who are allowed no part in the administration of its affairs, have defeated such a catastrophe. But if the good people won't learn, let the worst happen to them, and then they may wake up.

Labor Dictates Legislation

For ten years labor has dictated legislation. During that time there has not been one piece of legislation enacted, either by the national government, by a state government, or by any municipality, favorable to capital or corporations. Study the scenes of petty idiosyncrasy that have been enacted by our own Council right here in the City of Los Angeles. For example, you will remember that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company wanted to build a new depot at the Arcade site. I think it was fully three years before the Council made up its mind to allow them to do it, and after a lot of grand-stand plays, solely for political purposes, they finally allowed the building to be erected upon exactly the lines originally outlined.

Another example: There was a great congestion of street cars on Main Street. The Pacific Electric people pointed out that by routing a number of their cars on San Pedro Street, this congestion would be removed. The Council idiotically fiddled with this proposition for fully three years and then granted the railroad this privilege, making them, however, run over a short piece of main, owned railroad, which begins nowhere and ends nowhere and which it was compelled to employ the Pacific Electric to build for it. (This is the most gigantic monument of folly yet built by any governing body of this much misgoverned municipality.) And when this road was completed, they fiddled and quarrelled with the Pacific Electric for months and months, as to how it should get its cars to the Electric Building, and, as far as I know, that trouble is not yet settled. Then again look at the grand stand play at the detention of one man in fixing last year's gas rate. But why multiply examples of imbecility? All of this petty legislation has been dictated by union labor, not labor generally. For two years past want has been digging the knife into the ribs of all labor. Already there is a change in legislative sentiment everywhere in the Union, except in California and Arizona. Here also a change will come.

In conclusion, while things are dull, and prospects not as bright as we would like to have them, be of good cheer, gird up your loins, and tighten your belt, if hunger pinches. Be prepared to wait two years more. The country is so rich that even two additional years of Democratic mis-rule and reckless expenditure, cannot bankrupt it.

We Still Have Assets

Our climate has not been destroyed. Our hills are still productive. We are destined to be the playground of America. Our greatest asset is climate. In time, the tourist business will be our best business. The most lying advertisement that some unprincipled real estate dealer (and you will admit you have had such in your ranks)—ever drew, did not tell half the truth, and did not picture one-half of the prosperity which awaits Southern California.

While you are waiting for the clouds to roll by, remember that any depression that exists in the real estate situation here is temporary. That such depression is occasioned by the general condition of the country—that is, by the universal hard times now existing.

That the hard times were not occasioned by the European War—they were here before the war began—but by First: The reduction in our tariff charges, which has brought ruin to American manufacturing interests, enforced idleness on the employers of the country, and filled the land with unemployed wage-earners.

Second: By the continued assaults by agitators and demagogues, from the rostrum and through the press, on the business men and business interests of the nation.

Third: By long-continued legislative action against investigations of capital and corporations, which have destroyed business confidence and hampered business activities and developments.

Fourth: By the high cost of living, which has largely increased by the hostile attitude of union labor, which has adopted as its motto, a minimum service rendered for a maximum wage demanded.

Fifth: By unparalleled extravagance in administering the affairs of the country, both national and local, whereby the burdens upon real estate, through excessive taxation, have been largely increased. Every man here can help remedy these evils. They are mostly political, and must be met by your votes properly cast. Get into the fight. Educate the man next to you. Elect men to office with red blood in their veins.

Reason Resuming Sway

I am glad to note that at a recent election held in San Francisco, most drastic and far-reaching for ruin charter amendments were rejected by a large vote; so that it would appear that reason was resuming its sway even in that labor-union be-deviled community.

The Republican victory in Chicago last week made a noise as if the mis-guided voters of this country who followed false gods into the wilderness had regained their senses and will return to the fold. Remember the old hymn, "While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return." Meet them with both hands and a cordial welcome. There will be more of such victories, swelling into a mighty flood of remonstrance in 1916.

Never again will the people of this country allow the presidency to be run on psychology, and the Secretary of State's office on grape-juice and Chattanooga lectures. They have duly noted that the "whence-ness of the where" and the "howness of the how" have not brought home the bacon.

TO STOP HEADACHE

Headache usually comes from a sluggish liver and bowels. If you feel bilious, dizzy or tongue is coated and stomach sour, just get a 10-cent box of Cascarets to start your liver and bowels and your headaches will end.—Advertisement.
